The Unique Ethical and Legal Challenges in Advising Regulated Institutions

December 1 | 12:30 - 1:30 PM

John M. Geiringer, BFKN Financial Institutions Group Partner & Regulatory Section Leader

Scott Alvarez, Retired General Counsel, Federal Reserve Board

This session explores the unique issues facing lawyers who represent banks and other financial institutions. Using their experience in the public and private sectors, Scott and John will focus on the ethical challenges inherent to representing regulated entities that have ongoing relationships with the regulators that have significant authority over them. They also will discuss how the attorney–client privilege operates when dealing with regulated entities, and issues raised when providing both legal and business advice.
